Good morning darling: I'm afraid I won't get my regular letter into the mail this morning so I'm writing this V-mail. I have to attend a summary court martial as a witness & therefore will not have a chance to do any writing this morning. I wrote most of my letter yesterday, but didn't have a chance to finish it this morning & since something has arisen in which I want to give the whole story in one letter, I'm going to hold this up until I can finish it. ~~But~~ I had the opportunity of going to synagogue services in town. You should see their synagogue. I'll tell you more about that in my full letter. I met a little boy there who somewhat resembled Elvira at the time I left home - with that long single curl all the way from the front to back of his head, almost black hair, gorgeous black eyes, and the cutest dimples you ever saw. I'm afraid that I heard not a single word of the services. Unfortunately I had not brought any candy, etc. with me & was unable to give him anything but I did have a lot of fun with him & I have gotten his address & hope to have the opportunity of visiting with him & his family. I received a swell package of condiments from Dan & Roslyn last night. This seems to be package week since everyone has been getting plenty of them. I went to the synagogue with Hank & our Protestant Chaplain - Hank is just as irritating as ever - especially when one is not in an argumentative mood, which I wasn't last night. I had hoped to hear Heifetz to-day but I'm afraid that that is out of the question. Maybe he'll come out to our brown area one of these days. That's about all for now, my sweet. You should get a pretty long letter to make up for this. W.
